

raging rivers
fish falling
waves whooshing
bobbing boats
startled starfish
dolphins diving
water flowing
children smiling

splish, splosh, splash
as I throw a stone
as it ripples
as I look into the ocean as I sea as I put my hand into the water as my reflection flushes away as I leave the bay

starfish resting on the sea bed raindrops falling from the sky bright blue sails on a sea boat

rainbow rises, a colourful sight swans gracefully glide by sea shells, sea shells in the sea bank discovered these when my ship sank octopus playing under the sea with all his mates:

natalya, zoe, brandon, jack and bethany;
nicola, ellie, grace, georgia and hayley; ethan, ben, luke, james and billy;
rebecca, anais, rachel, louise, and kirsty; katrina, cleo, anika, jane and verity; christopher, callum, keaton, paige and corey.
